The Cuban Council of State passed a decree-law declaring October 6 as the "Day of the Victims of State Terrorism" resulting from the terrorist attack on flight CU-455 on October 6th, 1976:

At 11:21 a.m. flight CU-455, a DC-8 of the Cuban airline, reached the Seawell International Airport.

At 12:15 p.m. the plane left for Jamaica. In mid-flight it is shaken by two explosions: one at 12:23 p.m. and the other at 12:25 p.m. until it crashes into the sea. 73 people were traveling on the aircraft, amongst which was the Cuban junior fencing team. There were no survivors. 57 Cubans, 11 Guyanese and 5 North Koreans.
